

Neslihan Keser Özcan, RN, PhD, is Associate Professor of Mental Health Nursing at Istanbul University-Cerrahpaşa, Faculty of Health Science, Department of Midwifery

She received her bachelor degree in nursing at Istanbul University, Florence Nightingale School of Nursing in Istanbul and holds Master's and PhD degree in Psychiatric Nursing at the same university.

Her PhD thesis is associated with problematic internet use. She has provided guidance numerous research and thesis related with problematic internet use in Turkey.

She has been working in Istanbul University-Cerrahpaşa Faculty of Health Science Department of Midwifery and giving lectures on woman's mental health and communication skills since 2010. The main issues are related to the area of problematic internet use, mental health of woman, psychological / psychiatric problems during pregnancy and the postpartum period, violence.

Dr. Özcan was a board member of Turkish Psychiatric Nursing Association from 2011 to 2013 and she is currently Editorial Board of Journal of Turkish Psychiatric Nursing.

You can access Dr. Özcan's current academic profile

https://www.researchgate.net/profile/Neslihan_Oezcan